The fact that this, the last day of the old year, falls on Sunday, has not barred the customary festivities to welcome the new year. Although the parties will be of a more quiet nature than usual, at least until midnight, society will be out in force to hail 1912.

The party at the Country club this evening will be the largest of the celebrations. Many small parties will be given, numbering about a hundred members and guests, for the table d'hôte supper, which will be preceded by a musical and followed by a dance after midnight.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard H. Baldrige will have a party of sixteen this evening for Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Baldrige in celebration of the latter's first wedding anniversary.

With Mr. and Mrs. Westbrook will be Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Wheeler, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Swobe, Mr. and Mrs. A. V. Kinsler and Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Huntley. Lieutenant John Rindler will have a table for ten; Miss Alfred Millard, Mr. J. L. George, Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Magee, four, and Mr. and Mrs. John T. Stewart, twelve.

Miss Dorothy Higgins will be hostess at one of the parties, which will include Miss Mildred Butler, Miss Katherine Beeson, Miss Ruth Hammer, Miss Elizabeth Davis, Miss Marie Davis, Miss Dorothy Morgan, Miss Dunning, Mr. Hal Brady, Mr. Ben Ward, Mr. Jack Webster, Mr. Harold Pritchett, Mr. Cuthbert Potter, Mr. Gerald Wharton, Mr. Ned Millan, Mr. John Daugherty and Mr. and Mrs. Edward O'Brien.

At the Omaha club there will be music and watch parties this evening.

One of the most interesting of the watch parties in private homes will be that of Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Orr. For a dozen years Mr. and Mrs. Orr have watched the going of the old year and the coming of the new with almost the same friends. With them this evening will be Colonel and Mrs. Thomas Swobe, Mr. and Mrs. A. O. Hoffman, Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Borglum, Mr. and Mrs. John A. Waketield, Miss Ella Squires, Mr. and Mrs. Hoxie Clark of St. Louis, Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Swobe and Dr. James Goetz.

Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Kemper will have a watch party at their home for a few of their intimate friends.

A watch party of young people will be that for Fred Daugherty at Rosemere, the country home of Dr. and Mrs. C. C. Allison. ## New Year's Parties.

New Year's day night will be one round of gaiety. The largest of the parties will be that of Mr. and Mrs. Henry W. Yates, who, according to their custom of many years, will keep open house to their friends from 4 to 6 o'clock in the afternoon. Mrs. J. J. McMullen will give an afternoon coffee for her niece, Miss Nellie Hale of Denver. There will be dinners, large and small, and many theater parties.

Following the military custom, there will be open house at the commanding officers' quarters at both Fort Crook and Fort Omaha. At noon the officers of Fort Crook in full dress uniform will call at the quarters of Colonel Lassiter to wish well their superior officer. The Fort Omaha officers will pay their respects to Captain Clark at Fort Omaha in the same way. The wives of the officers will assist Mrs. Lassiter and Mrs. Clark at the posts.

For Harvard Musical Clubs.

All of the large social events of Saturday were in honor of the Harvard musical clubs.

In the afternoon a delightful tea was given by Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Ogden Smith at their home for the visitors, when a number of young women were invited to meet the visitors. Each of the guests was given a ribbon on which was printed the name of the wearer, so there would not be any confusion in names and the dance programs of the visitors were partially filled for the hall following the concert.

Assisting Mrs. Smith were: Mesdames—Arren Rogers, Clement Chase, Ward Burgess, Frank White, Mildred Rogers, Annie Page, Elizabeth Davis, Leola Holdridge, Elizabeth Bruce, Catherine Beeson, Frances Todd.

The concert by the Harvard Musical club at the Boyd last evening brought out society in large numbers. Numerous colleges were represented and the boxes were draped with the college colors.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur C. Smith and family occupied the Harvard box, while the Yale box was occupied by Miss Margaret McPherson, Miss Helen Forbes, Miss Alice Cuddey, Miss Florence Cuddey, Mr. Ted Millard, Mr. John Caldwell, Mr. Vic-

How to Keep Young and Pretty

Complexion Rules for Changeable Weather

By GARY DESLYS.

I must tell you frankly that the more I see, or rather feel, of your climate the more I dislike it, and the more my admiration grows for the American women who can stand it and even bloom in this constant change.

Yesterday we froze; today is like spring; tomorrow it will rain; a warm, summer-like, sticky rain, yet you can all go right on enjoying yourselves regardless of the weather and the depressing effect which the unnatural warmth has on the disposition or the equally distressing effect of sudden cold on the health.

Frankly, then, I do not like it. Also it perplexes me to know just how to adjust myself to the constant change, for at home I have an ordered and systematic way of caring for my health and looks in summer and an entirely different regime for winter weather. Here I have to use one system one day and the other one the next.

I do not use water on my face in winter at all. Nothing but cold creams, skin foods and unguents of various kinds.

Here I do the same on cold days. On the contrary, however, in summer I use quite a good deal of water, very little of the creams and much ice water on my face.

Now that I find summer suddenly transposed into winter, like ice cream in an "omelette surprise," I have to accommodate myself to my climatic conditions, but neither I nor my maid seem able to get used to it.

When the weather is chilly, especially nowadays with the light clothing which fashion makes us adopt, the skin feels an effect immediately, and even if one's hands and face don't chap, which they would never be allowed to do, a slight roughness appears on the skin, which feels dry and unelastic. It is then that you must avoid using water of any kind, even rain water, which is supposed to be so soft and soothing to the skin.

Use your cold cream instead. If you have none, or if you prefer it, use milk. Milk is delightful for washing the face and is not a fat, but a sensible and certainly a simple cosmetic. I don't like the odor of milk, and when I use it I have to wash it off in turn with perfumed water, so it has little effect. One should really allow the milk to dry on the skin, you know, especially if one has freckles. For freckles a buttermilk wash is even better, and I can recommend that particularly in the spring, when one should guard against a new crop of these disfiguring spots.

In the meantime, at this time of year, when we should be having winter, and probably will be chilled through before this is printed, I recommend cold cream for all purposes of cleaning. Rub a small quantity over the face and wipe it off carefully with a cloth or a towel which is very soft. Chamois cloth, or buttercloth, as they call it in London, is good if it has been washed out, but I think it is very hard and rough before the softening or whatever that finish is which chamois cloth has, is hotted out of it.

After you have wiped your face off with the cloth put on more cream and wipe it all off again. While you are putting the cream on, after the first few times begin to massage or rub the face, and by the time you have wiped off all the dust you will have given yourself a very good face treatment, and you will be surprised to see how refreshed your skin looks and how brilliant your complexion.

When I am through I take a little sandalwood or pure alcohol and wipe away the grease near the roots of the hair; behind the ears and at the side of the nose, also around the eyes.

Now I am ready for a little rice powder, and the cleansing treatment for winter days is finished. My skin never chaps and always feels soft and fresh.

Ice water will make your cheeks very rosy and is very refreshing when on the face. Sometimes I use it on these warm December days and pretend it is cold winter weather.
